About the Keio Student Health Care Mutual Aid Association (Gakuseikenpo)

1 What is the Keio Student Health Care Mutual Aid Association (Gakuseikenpo)?

The Keio Student Health Care Mutual Aid Association (hereafter "Gakuseikenpo") is a cooperative based on a spirit of mutual aid among students. It was established in 1959 with the aim of supporting student life from a health perspective.

2 Members

Full-time undergraduate and graduate degree students enrolled at Keio University become members of the Gakuseikenpo when they enter the university. Students who take a temporary leave of absence and study abroad remain members, but those who graduate, leave, or lose their status as Keio University students for other reasons, will have their membership terminated the day after their status has been rescinded.

3 Student Health Care Mutual Aid Fee

Members are required to pay a 100-yen registration fee and an annual Student Health Care Mutual Aid Fee of 2,500 yen together with their academic fees and expenses. If payment of the academic fees and expenses is overdue, members lose the right to receive the benefits listed in 4 Main activities of the Gakuseikenpo below.

4 Main activities of the Gakuseikenpo

- Medical Care Benefits: A scheme where a portion of the co-payment of a student's medical expenses will be reimbursed after receiving medical treatment covered by health insurance at health and medical care facilities. (See page 4)
- Prevention Benefits: In addition to access to the Training Room on Hiyoshi Campus (see page 8) and offering subsidized accommodation rates at Keiyaku Ryokan (inns with which the Gakuseikenpo has an agreement; see page 9), these benefits include activities to promote good health and prevent illness among students such as the various events planned by the Student Health Care Mutual Aid Committee, which is a welfare organization composed of student members.

Note 4: If your academic fees are overdue, you are ineligible to apply. If you paid overdue academic fees, you will be eligible to apply from the day the university confirms payment. Retroactive applications will not be accepted.

2 Expenses eligible for reimbursement

The following medical services are covered by public health insurance (hereinafter referred to as “expenses eligible for reimbursement”) at medical institutions in Japan that accept health insurance. Please note that certain expenses are not eligible for reimbursement (see 3 Expenses not eligible for reimbursement). Reimbursements are available for the following expenses:

- Medical consultation and tests
- Supplies for treatment
- Medication
- Medical treatments and surgeries
- Hospitalization

*Dental treatment

(outpatient care, hospitalization, and when filling a prescription at the pharmacy)

For dental treatment (outpatient care, hospitalization, and when filling a prescription at the pharmacy), only oral and maxillofacial surgery is covered under this scheme.

When applying for oral and maxillofacial surgery, a Certificate of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery (form designated by Keio University) completed by the medical institution must be submitted in addition to the regular application documents.

No dental treatment is eligible for coverage without the submission of a Certificate of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery (<https://gakukenpo.adst.keio.ac.jp/manual/kokugeka.pdf>).

Note that oral and maxillofacial surgery does not include the following procedures:

Orthodontics, tooth decay, periodontal disease, wisdom tooth removal, routine checkups, scaling, teeth cleaning, tooth whitening, repairing fillings and crowns, etc.

3 Expenses not eligible for reimbursement

The following treatments are not subject to reimbursement in the following cases, regardless of whether you are treated as an outpatient, hospitalized, or fill a prescription at a pharmacy (this includes some treatments covered by insurance).

- Dental treatments (excluding oral and maxillofacial surgery)
- Self-financed treatment (such as an influenza vaccination)
- Medical treatment at Judo-orthopedics, osteopathic clinics, and acupuncture-moxibustion clinics
- Expenses for meals while hospitalized and extra fees incurred for amenity beds
- Health checks and comprehensive medical exams
- Elective treatment fees
- Documentation fees and charges for medicine containers

4 Co-payment and maximum reimbursement amount

When making an application, please combine all expenses for treatments received within the same month into a single instance of co-payment, regardless of whether you were hospitalized, were treated as an outpatient, or filled a prescription at a pharmacy. For co-payments calculated based on the “medical remuneration points” recorded on the receipts issued by medical facilities (rounded down to the nearest 10 yen), the reimbursement limit per application is 50,000 yen. A co-payment of 2,000 yen per instance will be deducted by the Gakuseikenpo. You may only apply for reimbursement if medical fees incurred in one month exceed 2,000 yen.

-The maximum reimbursement amount is 50,000 yen per application, and is capped at 150,000 yen per year.

*If the cumulative reimbursement amount sought exceeds the maximum amount allowed per year, the excess will not be paid out. The maximum annual reimbursement amount for a year in which a student is enrolled for only six months will be capped at 75,000 yen. If reimbursement received for treatment exceeds the annual limit, or you receive reimbursement for treatments that are not eligible, funds will be recollected.

5 Application process

Please follow the instructions on the online form to complete your applications. *The application procedures are the same regardless of whether you are dealing with a general hospitals, Keio University Hospital, or a pharmacy.

Medical care subsidy at Keio University Clinics (Health Centers on each campus)

The Gakuseikenpo provides medical expense subsidies to all members for treatments received at Keio University Clinics. Please present your student ID card at the counter before undergoing the treatment. Although treatments received at the Keio University Clinics must be paid for at your own expense (100% of cost), you will only be billed for 50% (tax included) of the cost as the remaining 50% is subsidized by the Gakuseikenpo. In this case, you may not apply for the medical care benefits described on p. 4–7.

- ※ Fees for medical exams at the Shinanomachi Health Center are treated differently from the above. Please carry out the same application procedures as for Medical Care Benefits for general hospitals and Keio University Hospital as outlined in 5 Application process on page 6.
