What is a Scholarship?

A scholarship is a financial award given to students who are academically motivated. Scholarships can be broadly divided into two categories: benefit-type scholarships with no obligation of repayment; and loan-type scholarships that must be repaid within a certain period of time after graduation. There are interest-free loans (only the amount borrowed must be repaid) and interest-bearing loans (interest accrues on the amount borrowed).

Applying for and Receiving Multiple Scholarships

Receiving Multiple Scholarships:

Students can receive multiple scholarships at the same time (e.g., receiving both a JASSO loan-type scholarship and an internal scholarship). However, some scholarships are not allowed to be combined with other scholarships or have specific requirements. In some cases, if students are already receiving a benefit-type scholarship, this may be taken into consideration when applying for another benefit-type scholarship.

Applying for Multiple Scholarships:

Until the selection results are announced, students may apply to any number of scholarships, even if those scholarships are not allowed to be combined with other scholarships. However, please note that conditions for receiving and applying for multiple scholarships vary depending on the scholarship. Students must carefully read the application guidelines for each scholarship before applying.

Before Applying for Scholarships

1. Consider how much economic assistance you need.
2. If you decide on a loan-type scholarship, you yourself are responsible for the repayment.
3. Scholarship applications must be made by the student applying for the scholarship. Please prepare the application documents yourself.
4. All notifications and announcements regarding scholarships will be made on the Keio University Student Website.
5. Scholarship applications will only be accepted at the campus you are affiliated to and only from the applicants themselves.
6. Applications submitted outside the designated period and office hours will not be accepted.
7. Application documents found to be incomplete or containing errors will put you at a disadvantage.
8. Scholarship offers will be withdrawn if application documents are found to contain false information.
9. Applicants must take the annual health checkup conducted by the Keio University Health Center as a requirement for applying for scholarships.

What Kinds of Scholarships are Offered at Keio University?

Scholarships offered at Keio University can be broadly divided into three types.

1. Scholarships Awarded by Keio University (Internal Scholarships)

These scholarships do not need to be repaid.

2. JASSO's Scholarship Benefit/Loans

JASSO's (Japan Student Services Organization) scholarships are Japanese government-sponsored scholarships. This loan-type of scholarship has the largest number of recipients.

3. Scholarships Offered by Private Organizations and Local Governments

More than 100 organizations offer scholarships, including both benefit-type and loan-type scholarships at Keio University.

The above scholarships are awarded based on financial need, academic achievement, and qualities, but each differ in terms of purpose, amount, duration (e.g., within the standard term of study or one academic year only), and type (benefit or loan). Additionally, all scholarships have a nomination and selection quota, so not all students will be granted the scholarship they apply for, and there is a selection process for each scholarship.

Eligibility Criteria

- ✓ Must be undergraduate students
  - ✓ Must be Japanese students or international students whose status of residence is either “Permanent resident,” “Special Permanent resident,” “Long-term resident,” “Dependent,” or “Child or spouse of Japanese national (permanent resident)”.
- * Applicants with “Dependent” status of residence may apply for internal scholarships that are awarded for one academic year only.

Important Notes

- As a general rule, students who are on a temporary leave of absence, studying abroad, or have been suspended from the university cannot apply.
- There are limited scholarships available for students who have repeated a year. (This does not include students who were on a temporary leave of absence.)

Selection Criteria

Each scholarship places an emphasis on different criteria. Emphasis may be placed upon financial need, or academic ability, or both. Depending on the scholarship, there may also be an interview or you may be required to submit an essay, etc.

Academic Criteria

Some scholarships have requirements regarding academic performance. Academic standards will be measured according to the following:

Year	Academic Standards
1st year	Average grade taken from your Official School Report ( Chōsasho ) (5-point grading scale) *Students who attended a high school overseas must present their transcript for academic records (with the grades) for each year
2nd year or above	Adjusted GPA (for Scholarships)

Method for Calculating Adjusted GPA

Take your grades (S, A, B, C, D) from your latest Transcript of Academic Record and use the following equation to calculate your Adjusted GPA. Credits from courses for which “P”, “F” or “★” grades were received are not included in the equation.

Courses taken up until the 2016 academic year  $X=3.50A+2.16B+0.81C+0.0D$

Courses to be taken from the 2017 academic year  $Y=4S+3A+2B+1C+0D$

$$\text{Adjusted GPA} = \frac{X + Y}{S + A + B + C + D}$$

Round to the third decimal place and cut off at the second digit after the decimal point

Financial Criteria

Some scholarships have standard criteria regarding financial need. The evaluation is made based on household income as defined by JASSO, which is calculated using various factors such as household income, family structure, commuting situation, and tuition fees.

Type of Scholarship	Factors
Internal scholarships	Income of both parents (or financial supporter of your household)	Salary income: Provide documentation showing amount of earnings (incl. tax) such as a “源泉徴収票 / gensen chōshūhyō (statement of earnings) Business income: Document showing income amount (incl. tax) such as tax returns

Abbreviations: "JASSO" - JASSO's scholarship loan(s) "Private Org./Local Govt." - Scholarships offered by private and local government organizations

The highest monthly amount for JASSO Category 1 Loans is a model case only applicable to university entrants in the 2021 academic year. A restriction is placed on the amount of money for use based on the household income reported at the time of the scholarship application.

The table above is for a family comprising both parents (with only one parent earning an income), the student (new student entering Keio), and younger brother (attending a public high school and commuting from home). If both parents are earning an income or the family structure/the number of income earners differ, the upper income limit will also be different from the figures given above. (Note that the figures in the table do not indicate the combined gross income of both parents.) If your household income does not substantially exceed the upper limit, we advise you to apply for the scholarship.

2. JASSO's (Japan Student Services Organization) Scholarships

JASSO's scholarship is the national scholarship system.

It is presupposed that the application process for JASSO's scholarships, from the initial recruitment of applicants to the application itself and the acceptance of candidates, will be conducted entirely in Japanese. For further details refer to the 慶應義塾大学奨学金案内 (Keio University Scholarship Information Guidebook), the 給付奨学金案内 (Guide for Benefit-type Scholarships) and the 貸与奨学金案内 (Guide for Loan-type Scholarships). *Japanese version only

● New Study Support System for Higher Education (JASSO Benefit-type Scholarships and Keio University Tuition Reduction Scholarships)

It is not necessary to pay back these scholarships after graduation. However, more stringent selection requirements than for the loan-type scholarships are applied, and persons without the resolve to concentrate on their studies while at university or who take the application process lightly should refrain from applying.

The Benefit-type Scholarship applicants who fulfill the selection requirements need to apply for the Keio University Tuition Reduction Scholarship at the same time. (Applications cannot be made for only one or the other of these scholarships.)

The grades hereto obtained and the financial situation of the financial supporter will be reviewed every year. If outside the criteria, the scholarship stipend and tuition reduction will be suspended or discontinued.

● Loans

Students who borrow money from JASSO, which they have an obligation to repay. It is mainly operated through loans from the government and repayments made by graduates. There are both type-1 (interest-free) and type-2 (interest-bearing) scholarships, for which accepted applicants will in principle receive a loan until the last year of their standard enrollment.

3. Private Organizations and Local Government Scholarships

---

There are many scholarship providers recruiting scholarship students, including foundations, non-profit foundations, private corporations, and prefectural and municipal governments. Keio University receives the support of more than 100 scholarship providers on average every year. Most of the scholarships continue to be provided to successful candidates until graduation.

It is presupposed that the application process for each of the scholarship providers, from the initial recruitment of applicants to the application itself and the acceptance of candidates, will be conducted entirely in Japanese. For further details refer to the 慶應義塾大学奨学金案内 (Keio University Scholarship Information Guidebook).

Required Application Documents

When making a scholarship application various documents are required, including documentation relating to income and academic grades. Carefully read the important notes below and prepare the documents that are specified. In particular, students who live away from home during the semester should consider the time it will take to have the required documentation sent to them, and make the necessary preparations as early as possible. If students have any questions regarding how to write up or prepare the documentation, they must ensure that they inquire at the scholarship section at the campus where they are enrolled before the application deadline.

Important Notes on Completing Documents

- If your Individual Number (My Number) is shown on documents, please submit after crossing out the relevant sections with a personal information protection stamp (your details must not be crossed out with black ink).
- If there are any missing or mistaken entries in the submitted documentation, students may be omitted from the screening process.
- If any of the entries on the submitted documentation are false, successful applications will be annulled even after acceptance.
- Please enter your keio.jp e-mail address in the e-mail address fields on the application documents. All scholarship-related e-mails will be sent to your keio.jp address.

Application Documents Required for Internal Scholarships and Scholarships Offered by Private Organizations and Local Governments

Once students have applied to a scholarship from either the internal scholarships or the private organizations and local government scholarships, their application details will be registered with the university (this information will only be valid for the current academic year). *Excludes certain scholarships such as direct individual applications.

The term “academic year” within the scholarship application process refers to the one-year period of the year level of students at the time of their application. Academic record (transcripts, grade report, etc.) for the Spring Semester

*An academic record is only required if an applicant has applied in the Spring Semester as the first application and the Fall Semester as the second application. If the applicant enrolled in the Fall Semester and applies in the Spring Semester the following year as the first application, he/she only needs to submit an academic record for the Fall Semester of the previous year.

- In cases where the first application for a scholarship required different documentation to the set that is specified in the “First Application of the Academic Year” section, students should submit the whole set of documents stated above even when making an application for the second time.
- Scholarships provided by undergraduate faculties and scholarships for students who are disaster victims may be handled differently to the scholarships that are detailed above. Students should check the application guidelines.

Documents relating to income

Because it is necessary for students applying for a JASSO's (Japan Student Services Organization) Scholarship Loan to submit their Individual Number (My Number), in principle they will not be required to submit documents relating to income to the university. However, in cases where students receive special deductions, it will be necessary for them to submit relevant documents on a case-by-case basis. Please check the column for relevant persons only in the Checklist for JASSO's (Japan Student Services Organization) Scholarship Loans at the end of this volume (B) and prepare the required documents.

Note: For more details, please read the 慶應義塾大学奨学金案内, and the guidelines for applying to JASSO's scholarship loans, the 貸与奨学金案内 (Guide for Loan-type Scholarships), published by JASSO.

➤ Applicants making a single application for a Japan Student Services Organization (JASSO) benefit-type scholarship and applicants making applications for both the JASSO benefit-type scholarship and loan-type scholarship must prepare their application documents after confirming checklist ㉔ and reading the “Guide for Benefit-type Scholarships” published by JASSO.

Important Students applying for more than one scholarship

The above application documents must be prepared and submitted as a separate set when you apply for JASSO's scholarship loans in addition to other scholarships (i.e., internal scholarships and scholarships offered by private organizations and local governments). Documents that are the same for both types of scholarships (e.g., documents proving household circumstances, income, and academic record [transcripts, grade report, etc.]) must be prepared and submitted separately for each application. Students should submit original copies for each application as requested.

Method for Submitting Application Documents and Important Notes (applies to all scholarships)

- Students must submit the application documentation by themselves. Applications submitted on the behalf of a student by guarantors or friends and applications submitted by post will not be accepted.
- Applications will not be accepted outside of the specified application period and office hours for submission, or at a campus other than where the student is enrolled.
- Once the documents have been submitted, they will not be loaned out or returned to students for any reason.
- If there is any incomplete or incorrect information on the submitted documents, they may not be accepted or the student may be omitted from the screening process.
- Because it will be very busy on the final day of the application period and during lunch breaks, the offices in charge of handling applications will require time for processing the submission of documents. Taking the class times into consideration, students should ensure that they have plenty of time to spare and submit the application documents as early as possible.
- Documents will only be accepted for submission upon going through and confirming the various entries. Students will be questioned as necessary and should ensure that they are in a position to answer about their household finances.
- Students should follow the instructions issued by the campus where they are enrolled regarding any other details.

Important Notes for after Acceptance of Application

- In order to confirm the eligibility of students whose scholarship applications were accepted, information relating to their academic record (number of credits attained/grades) and enrollment information regarding advancement to the next year, repeating a year, graduation, withdrawal from the university, leave of absence, studying abroad, and suspension, etc., may be submitted to the scholarship providers.
- In cases where scholarship recipients are subject to disciplinary action such as suspension in accordance with University Regulations, measures will be taken following the rules and regulations for the scholarship or financial aid concerned to stop the provision, to recover a part of any payments already made, and to disqualify the concerned party from receipt of the scholarship or loan.

Procedures relating to Changes in Student Registration (Repeat of Year, Temporary Leave of Absence, Study Abroad, and Withdrawals)

If, after the scholarship application has been accepted and students repeat a year, take a temporary leave of absence, study abroad, or withdraw from the university, depending on the scholarship or financial aid, provision or loan payments may be stopped and said students may have to return part of the amount already received. Students should promptly get in contact with the scholarship section at the campus where they are enrolled and carry out the necessary administrative procedures.

The administrative procedures described below are for internal scholarships. Refer to the 慶應義塾大学奨学金案内 (Keio University Scholarship Information Guidebook) for information on the JASSO's (Japan Student Services Organization) scholarship loans and private organizations and local government scholarships.

Procedures for Recipients of Internal Scholarships

Recipients may lose their eligibility to receive the scholarship if repeating a year, taking a temporary leave of absence, studying abroad, or withdrawing from the university. In such cases, either a part or the total amount of the scholarship provision already received must be returned.

Students should contact the scholarship section at the campus where they are enrolled once it is decided that they will take a temporary leave of absence, study abroad, or will withdraw from the university.

Procedures for Changes to Address (guarantor and scholarship recipient), Surname, Guarantor, or Bank Account for Money Transfers

In cases of changes to an address (guarantor and scholarship recipient), surname, or guarantor, students should promptly contact the scholarship and academic affairs sections at the campus where they are enrolled and carry out the necessary administrative procedures (Academic Affairs Web System only for changes to student addresses). For scholarships with continuous payments, including JASSO's scholarship loans, students should contact the scholarship section at the campus where they are enrolled in the case of any changes to the bank account they use for money transfers.
