What is a Scholarship?

A scholarship is a financial award given to students who are academically motivated. Scholarships can be broadly divided into two categories: benefit-type scholarships with no obligation of repayment; and loan-type scholarships that must be repaid within a certain period of time after graduation. There are interest-free loans (only the amount borrowed must be repaid) and interest-bearing loans (interest accrues on the amount borrowed).

Applying for and Receiving Multiple Scholarships

Receiving Multiple Scholarships:

Students can receive multiple scholarships at the same time (e.g., receiving both a JASSO loan-type scholarship and an internal scholarship). However, some scholarships are not allowed to be combined with other scholarships or have specific requirements. In some cases, if students are already receiving a benefit-type scholarship, this may be taken into consideration when applying for another benefit-type scholarship.

Applying for Multiple Scholarships:

Until the selection results are announced, students may apply to any number of scholarships, even if those scholarships are not allowed to be combined with other scholarships. However, please note that conditions for receiving and applying for multiple scholarships vary depending on the scholarship. Students must carefully read the application guidelines for each scholarship before applying.

Before Applying for Scholarships

1. Consider how much economic assistance you need.
2. If you decide on a loan-type scholarship, you yourself are responsible for the repayment.
3. Scholarship applications must be made by the student applying for the scholarship. Please prepare the application documents yourself.
4. All notifications and announcements regarding scholarships will be made on the bulletin boards.
5. Scholarship applications will only be accepted at the campus you are affiliated to and only from the applicants themselves.
6. Applications submitted outside the designated period and office hours will not be accepted.
7. Application documents found to be incomplete or containing errors will put you at a disadvantage.
8. Scholarship offers will be withdrawn if application documents are found to contain false information.
9. Applicants must take the annual health checkup conducted by the Keio University Health Center as a requirement for applying for scholarships.
What kinds of scholarships are offered at Keio University?

Scholarships offered at Keio University can be broadly divided into three types.

1. Scholarships Awarded by Keio University (Internal Scholarships)
   These scholarships do not need to be repaid.

2. JASSO’s scholarship loans
   JASSO’s (Japan Student Services Organization) scholarship loans are Japanese government-sponsored loan-type scholarships. This type of scholarship has the largest number of recipients (one in seven students at Keio University).

3. Scholarships offered by private organizations and local governments
   Around 140 organizations offer scholarships, including both benefit-type and loan-type scholarships at Keio University.

The above scholarships are awarded based on financial need, academic achievement, and qualities, but each differ in terms of purpose, amount, duration (e.g., within the standard term of study or one academic year only), and type (benefit or loan). Additionally, all scholarships have a nomination and selection quota, so not all students will be granted the scholarship they apply for, and there is a selection process for each scholarship.

- Benefit
  - Loan
  - Mainly April and May
  - Depends on the scholarship

*1 Application guidelines and related information will be posted one month before the start of the application period, so check the bulletin boards regularly.

*2 At Keio University, the standard term of study is 6 years for students in the School of Medicine and Faculty of Pharmacy (Department of Pharmacy) and 4 years for students in the other faculties.
Eligibility Criteria

- Must be undergraduate students
- Must be Japanese students or international students whose status of residence is “Permanent resident,” “Special Permanent resident,” “Long-term resident,” “Dependent,” or “Child or spouse of Japanese national (permanent resident)”.
  * Applicants with “Dependent” status of residence may apply for internal scholarships that are awarded for one academic year only.

Important Notes

- As a general rule, students on a temporary leave of absence cannot apply.
- There are limited scholarships available for students who have repeated a year. (This does not include students who were on a temporary leave of absence.)

Selection Criteria

Each scholarship places an emphasis on different criteria. Emphasis may be placed upon financial need, or academic ability, or both. Depending on the scholarship, there may also be an interview or you may be required to submit an essay, etc.

Academic Criteria

Some scholarships have requirements regarding academic performance. Academic standards will be measured according to the following:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>Academic Standards</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1st year</td>
<td>Average grade taken from your Official School Report (Chōsasho) (5-point grading scale)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>*Students who attended a high school overseas must present their transcript for academic records (with the grades) for each year</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2nd year or above</td>
<td>Adjusted GPA (for Scholarships)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Method for Calculating Adjusted GPA

Take your grades (S, A, B, C) from your most recent Transcript of Academic Record and use the following equation to calculate your Adjusted GPA. Credits from courses for which “D”, “P”, “F” or “★” grades were received are not included in the equation.

Courses taken up until the 2016 academic year  \( X = 5A + 4B + 3C \)

Courses to be taken from the 2017 academic year  \( Y = 5.5S + 4.5A + 4B + 3C \)

\[
\text{Adjusted GPA} = \frac{X + Y}{S + A + B + C}
\]

Round to the third decimal place and cut off at the second digit after the decimal point.
Financial Criteria

Some scholarships have standard criteria regarding financial need. The evaluation is made based on household income as defined by JASSO, which is calculated using various factors such as household income, family structure, commuting situation, and tuition fees.

Abbreviations: “JASSO” - JASSO's scholarship loan(s); “Private Org/Local Govt” - Scholarships offered by private and local government organizations.

The highest monthly amount for JASSO category 1 loans is a model case only applicable to university entrants in the 2019 academic year. A restriction is placed on the amount of money for use based on the household income reported at the time of the scholarship application.

The table above is for a family comprising both parents (with only one parent earning an income), the student (new student entering Keio), and younger brother (attending a public high school and commuting from home). If both parents are earning an income or the family structure/the number of income earners differ, the upper income limit will also be different from the figures given above. (Note that the figures in the table do not indicate the combined gross income of both parents.) If your household income does not substantially exceed the upper limit, we advise you to apply for the scholarship.

Details about the “keio.jp” e-mail address used for communication from the university

All communication from the university will only be sent to the “keio.jp” e-mail addresses of students after they have applied for scholarships. Please pay attention to your “keio.jp” e-mail account and check it regularly after applying for a scholarship.

[To new students] What is the “keio.jp” e-mail address?

The “keio.jp” e-mail is the university’s e-mail service that all students can use after they have enrolled and personally set up an account. E-mail addresses are in the following format, and this is known as your Keio ID.
E.g. keiotaro@keio.jp

The local part of the e-mail address before the @ sign will be set to the string of letters requested by students when activating their accounts. Please carefully read the admission-related materials that were sent out by the university for how to obtain an account.

*CNS e-mail is also used at Shonan Fujisawa Campus. Please confirm with the staff member in charge of scholarships on your campus for details.

Protection of Personal Information

- In addition to the scholarship application screening process and other administrative procedures relating to scholarships, the personal information provided by students will also be used for: (1) the management of and procedures and correspondences relating to academic affairs; (2) the management of and procedures and correspondences relating to student life in general; (3) the dispatch of various documentation to the student and his/her guarantor; any other purpose stated in the admissions procedures guidelines.
- In order to confirm the eligibility of students whose scholarship applications were accepted, information relating to their academic record (number of credits attained/grades) and enrollment information regarding advancement to the next year, repeating a year, graduation, withdrawal from the university, leave of absence, studying abroad, and suspension, etc., may be submitted to the scholarship providers concerned.

Scholarships offered by Each Faculty
- The School of Medicine, Faculty of Science and Technology, Faculty of Nursing and Medical Care, Faculty of Pharmacy, Faculty of Policy Management, and the Faculty of Environment and Information Studies handle their own scholarships. Please consult with the scholarship section at each faculty for further details.

Characteristics
- The internal scholarships at Keio University are all benefit-type scholarships which do not need to be repaid.
- Most of the scholarships are for a one-year period. In principle, however, students may apply again the following year. Because it is possible to apply on an annual basis, a large number of students are given the chance to secure a scholarship.
- Another characteristic of the Internal scholarships is that many are run using donations from Keio alumni (graduates) and benefactors.

Important Notes
- Some scholarships do not accept applications from students who have not yet paid their academic fees and expenses.
- The screening and decision-making process will not be disclosed.
- The acceptance of an application will be annulled in the case of any false declarations.
- Scholarship students may lose their entitlement to the scholarship if they are deemed to be ineligible after the application has been accepted. In such cases, either all or a part of the scholarship received must be returned.

2. JASSO’s (Japan Student Services Organization) Scholarship Loans

JASSO’s scholarship loans is the national scholarship system. Students borrow money from JASSO, which they have an obligation to repay. It is mainly operated through loans from the government and repayments made by graduates. There are both type-1 (interest-free) and type-2 (interest-bearing) scholarships, for which accepted applicants will in principle receive a loan until the last year of their standard enrollment.

It is presupposed that the application process for JASSO’s scholarship loans, from the initial recruitment of applicants to the application itself and the acceptance of candidates, will be conducted entirely in Japanese. For further details refer to the 庆应义塾大学奨学金案内 (Keio University Scholarship Information Guidebook) and the 奨学金を希望する皆さんへ (To Everyone Hoping for a Scholarship) published by JASSO.

3. Private Organizations and Local Government Scholarships

There are many scholarship providers recruiting scholarship students, including foundations, non-profit foundations, private corporations, and prefectural and municipal governments. Keio University receives the support of approximately 140 scholarship providers on average every year. Most of the scholarships continue to be provided to successful candidates until graduation.

It is presupposed that the application process for each of the scholarship providers, from the initial recruitment of applicants to the application itself and the acceptance of candidates, will be conducted entirely in Japanese. For further details refer to the 庆应义塾大学奨学金案内 (Keio University Scholarship Information Guidebook).
Required Application Documents

When making a scholarship application various documents are required, including documentation relating to income and academic grades. Carefully read the important notes below and prepare the documents that are specified. In particular, students who live away from home during the semester should consider the time it will take to have the required documentation sent to them, and make the necessary preparations as early as possible. If students have any questions regarding how to write up or prepare the documentation, they must ensure that they inquire at the scholarship section at the campus where they are enrolled before the application deadline.

Important Notes on Completing Documents

- Fill out all documents and essays in black ink or using a black ballpoint pen. Erasable ballpoint pens or ink that will fade over time should not be used.
- When affixing a seal, use a stamp that requires an inkpad. Do not use a self-inking seal or rubber stamp.
- The use of correction fluid or correction tape is not permitted. If you make a mistake, cross out the section in question with two lines, affix your seal, and write it out again in the margin.
- If your Individual Number (My Number) is shown on documents, please submit after crossing out the relevant sections with a personal information protection stamp (your details must not be crossed out with black ink).
- If there are any missing or mistaken entries in the submitted documentation, students may be omitted from the screening process.
- If any of the entries on the submitted documentation are false, successful applications will be annulled even after acceptance.
Application Documents Required for Internal Scholarships and Scholarships Offered by Private Organizations and Local Governments

Once students have applied to a scholarship from either the internal scholarships or the private organizations and local government scholarships, their application details will be registered with the university (this information will only be valid for the current academic year). *Excludes certain scholarships such as direct individual applications.

The term “academic year” within the scholarship application process refers to the one-year period of the year level of students at the time of their application. For example, in the case of students who were admitted to the university during the September intake, the Fall and Spring Semesters from September to August constitute one academic year.

Documents relating to income

Because it is necessary for students applying for a JASSO’s (Japan Student Services Organization) Scholarship Loan to submit their Individual Number (My Number), in principle they will not be required to submit documents relating to income to the university. However, in cases where students receive special deductions, it will be necessary for them to submit relevant documents on a case-by-case basis. Please check the column for relevant persons only in the Checklist for JASSO’s (Japan Student Services Organization) Scholarship Loans at the end of this volume (B) and prepare the required documents.

Note: For more details, please read the 慶應義塾大学奨学金案内, and the guidelines for applying to JASSO’s scholarship loans, the 奨学金を希望する皆さんへ (To Everyone Hoping for a Scholarship), published by JASSO.

Important: Students applying for more than one scholarship

The above application documents must be prepared and submitted as a separate set when you apply for JASSO’s scholarship loans in addition to other scholarships (i.e., internal scholarships and scholarships offered by private organizations and local governments). Documents that are the same for both types of scholarships (e.g., documents proving household circumstances, income, and academic record [transcripts, grade report, etc.]) must be prepared and submitted separately for each application. Students should submit original copies for each application as requested.

Method for Submitting Application Documents and Important Notes (applies to all scholarships)

- Students must submit the application documentation in person. Applications submitted on the behalf of a student by guarantors or friends and applications submitted by post will not be accepted.
- Applications will not be accepted outside of the specified application period and office hours for submission, or at a campus other than where the student is enrolled.
- Once the documents have been submitted, they will not be loaned out or returned to students for any reason.
- If there is any incomplete or incorrect information on the submitted documents, they may not be accepted or the student may be omitted from the screening process.
- Because it will be very busy on the final day of the application period and during lunch breaks, the offices in charge of handling applications will require time for processing the submission of documents. Taking into consideration class times, students should ensure that they have plenty of time to spare and submit the application documents as early as possible.
- Documents will only be accepted for submission upon going through and confirming the various entries. Students will be questioned as necessary and should ensure that they are in a position to answer about their household finances.
- Students should follow the instructions issued by the campus where they are enrolled regarding any other details.

Important Notes for after Acceptance of Application

- In order to confirm the eligibility of students whose scholarship applications were accepted, information relating to their academic record (number of credits attained/grades) and enrollment information regarding advancement to the next year, repeating a year, graduation, withdrawal from the university, leave of absence, studying abroad, and suspension, etc., may be submitted to the scholarship providers.

- In cases where scholarship recipients are subject to disciplinary action such as suspension in accordance with University Regulations, measures will be taken following the rules and regulations for the scholarship or financial aid concerned to stop the provision, to recover a part of any payments already made, and to disqualify the concerned party from receipt of the scholarship or loan.

Procedures relating to Changes in Student Registration (Repeat of Year, Temporary Leave of Absence, Study Abroad, and Withdrawals)

If, after the scholarship application has been accepted and students repeat a year, take a temporary leave of absence, study abroad, or withdraw from the university, depending on the scholarship or financial aid, provision or loan payments may be stopped and said students may have to return part of the amount already received. Students should promptly get in contact with the scholarship section at the campus where they are enrolled and carry out the necessary administrative procedures.

The administrative procedures described below are for internal scholarships. Refer to the 庆應義塾大学奨学金案内 (Keio University Scholarship Information Guidebook) for information on the JASSO’s (Japan Student Services Organization) scholarship loans and private organizations and local government scholarships.

Procedures for Recipients of Internal Scholarships

Recipients may lose their eligibility to receive the scholarship if repeating a year, taking a temporary leave of absence, studying abroad, or withdrawing from the university. In such cases, either a part or the total amount of the scholarship provision already received must be returned.

Students should contact the scholarship section at the campus where they are enrolled once it is decided that they will take a temporary leave of absence, study abroad, or will withdraw from the university.

Procedures for Changes to Address (guarantor and scholarship recipient), Surname, Guarantor, or Bank Account for Money Transfers

In cases of changes to an address (guarantor and scholarship recipient), surname, or guarantor, students should promptly contact the scholarship and academic affairs sections at the campus where they are enrolled and carry out the necessary administrative procedures (Academic Affairs Web System only for changes to student addresses). For scholarships with continuous payments, including JASSO’s scholarship loans, students should contact the scholarship section at the campus where they are enrolled in the case of any changes to the bank account they use for money transfers.
