

Subjects with Restrictions for Students from Other Faculties and Graduate Schools : Undergraduate

Update on: 1 March, 2020
Launched on: 1 March, 2020

【Please note (applicable to all faculties and graduate schools)】

1. Students must carefully read the course registration guide and carry out the procedures required to take a subject taught at another faculty or graduate school. There may be subjects with restrictions other than those shown below. Please make sure to carefully read the corresponding subject description and syllabus.
2. Subject-related orientation and a description of restrictions may be provided at the first lecture/class. Please make sure you attend.
3. There may also be restrictions specific to year of study. Even in the case of subjects with no restrictions, conditions specific to year of study must be satisfied before subjects can be taken.
4. Some courses do not accept fall semester registrations; please refer to syllabuses and class schedules carefully.
